Red. Black. Class. Sports. Art. Greek. Music. Studying. This was a year of surprises. A year of fun. A year of success. Beginning the 101st year of Arkansas State University, changes could be seen from the new Red W.O.L.F Center to subtle changes like being able to rent textbooks. Faculty joined together to honor the legacy and retirement of President Les Wyatt. This was a year of growing. A year of bonding. It was a year of laughing and winning and playing. At a University where students can play like kids and work like adults, there is never a dull moment. It was definitely a year of _____.

HE'S GOT SPIRIT

FUNNIEST MEMORY

What is your funniest memory at ASU?

"Last year, me and a few buddies did this challenge on campus, where Red Bull hid a few packages of Red Bull Shots different places around campus, and we ended up finding two of the packages. Between the four of us, we drank all of them (about 5-6 each). We got in our cars and drove, saw a light flying around the sky, so we chased it for thirty minutes until we found a haunted house- which I ended up having to run out of because I couldn't stand how scary it was. Hilarious night."

"I was in the fine arts building late one night working on a project with my friends Rachel and Melloney. We heard loud stomping and chanting coming from down the hall and realized that the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity was practicing for step show. So all three of us decided to sneak around the back of the building upstairs so that we could watch them practice without being seen (super creepers, I know.) We were laying down on the ground when I saw someone out of the corner of my eye. We had been caught. Bryan Watkins, an Alpha, was standing there with a smirk. Needless to say our cover was blown and an obnoxious roar of girly laughter filled the lobby. They told us we didn't have to hide and invited us to watch them practice "

"Probably the time when I was riding my bike to class and a little girl was trying to feed a squirrel on the sidewalk. As she got closer to the squirrel it darted off and she followed it right into the front tire of my bike. I tried to stop and ask her if she was ok but I couldn't stop laughing enough to say anything!"

"My funniest memory at ASU was probably the look on my professor's face the day I brought up a movie she was in, which I found on the Internet. It made for a very interesting class discussion!"

"While on the way to Niagara Falls on the SGA staff retreat our tour bus suddenly stopped in the middle of a major 4-way intersection. After sitting on the bus for around ten minutes our tour guide had still not said anything or acknowledged that traffic was coming at us in all directions! He didn't even try to restart the bus. When we began asking questions he said, "Shut your mouth," and then got off the bus to look under the hood! We eventually got off the bus and waited for another tour bus, while our bus blocked traffic for over an hour!"

A SUMMER OF beginnings

Slowly stepping through the double doors from the parking garage into the Carl R. Reng Center, students nervously approached the uniformed Orientation Leaders to find their way around for the first time. Taylor Troillett was among the new students sitting in Laura Keath and Chloe Case's group. My favorite game was the sheet game," Troillett said. "It was really fun and made you learn everyone's name." The students learned about Arkansas State University while playing games, taking tours, and making their schedules.

"It was really easy," Troillett said. "And the advisors and Orientation Leaders helped you feel comfortable."

BECOMING acquainted

On the afternoon of August 2nd, seventy freshmen swarmed to the lobby of Kays Hall to check in for Camp A-State. This camp is targeted at freshmen who look forward to getting involved in college and who aspire to be campus leaders. During their two-day stay, participants became equipped to do just that. Campers learned important leadership skills, took part in diversity activities, ran relay races in the Red W.O.L.F. Center, and bonded with their peers. In only forty-eight hours, the freshmen took away what would be their first collegiate memories, lifelong friendships, and the desire to become a part of something bigger than themselves.

EXPLORING OUR possibilities

Welcome Week at Arkansas State University was a week of new beginnings, new friendships, and new possibilities. More than 13,000 students are enrolled at ASU and making them feel at home is what the Student Activities Board strived to make Welcome Week all about. This year, the week's events ranged from oversized games on Heritage Plaza Lawn to a hypnotist trying to convince students to have dance offs and impersonate celebrities. From the scrambling freshmen on move in day, to the upperclassmen stuffing their backpacks with freebies from the Community and Organization Fair, Welcome Week was a success.

WHERE TO begin

The Community and Organization Fair was held on August 23rd and attracted multitudes of students eager to get involved, meet new people, and get free gifts. The fair is one of the most anticipated events of Welcome Week and always brings out campus and community organizations that love welcoming back upperclassmen and meeting new Red Wolves. Registered Student Organizations, Greeks, and businesses from the Jonesboro community come out to Welcome Week to encourage students to make the most out of their college career and take advantage of everything ASU, Jonesboro has to offer. All photos by Chris Brown.

THE FIRST, BIG howl

Red Wolf fans packed the stands for the annual Order of the Pack Pep Rally. Order of the Pack is the annual pep rally that kicks off the school year, and highlights all aspects of ASU, from ROTC, the ASU choir, and the ASU band.We were welcomed to this event by our SGA President, given campus history, and introduced to all of our athletic teams. Students also showed off their school spirit and school pride. The cheerleaders led fans in a cheer to support the football team in their upcoming game. After the event, students were given a Red Wolves cooler for an ASU souvenir.The ASU Red Wolves were eager and ready to kick off a great year!

SHE'S MISS Arkansas State

Miss Arkansas State University is an annual philanthropic beauty pageant held at ASU's Fowler Center. The men of Pi Kappa Alpha sponsor Miss ASU to benefit the research performed by the American Cancer Society. Contestants are nominated and sponsored by family members or various organizations across campus. This year, eleven women competed for the title, with Crys Phillips, a junior from Jonesboro, winning the 2010 crown. First runner up was Maegan Inzer, a junior from Benton. Second runner up was Kelsey Dow, a freshman from Jonesboro. Third runner up was Somer Allen, a senior from Jonesboro. Forth runner up was Kohl McCone, a sophomore from Monticello. Each contestant is judged within four categories: platform, swimsuit, talent, and evening gown. Congratulations to the current Miss ASU, Crys Phillips!

INNER SEUSS spirit

Homecoming week is one of the most exciting times of the school year for the whole ASU community. This year's theme was "Red Pack, Black Pack, Our Pack, Wolf Pack!" in the spirit of Dr. Seuss. Some of the events included a "Show your Spirit" Banner competition, a Dr. Seuss themed Costume Contest, Relay Games on the Lawn, "To Think I Saw it at Astate" Variety show, and a "Yell Like Hell" spirit competition. Every part of the community participated in some way, boosting the spirit of the Red Wolves football team. As Dr. Seuss himself would say, "And will you succeed? Yes indeed, yes indeed! Ninety-eight and three quarters percent guaranteed!"

PLANTING OUR roots

After days and nights of campaigning on campus, Facebook, and Twitter the 2010 Homecoming Court enjoyed a day of Homecoming Festivities on Saturday, October 2, 2010. The day kicked off with a Homecoming Brunch, sponsored by the Student Activities Board, where court members enjoyed a meal with both family and friends. Upon arriving to the game the court took the traditional pictures and cheered on the Red Wolves during the first half while anxiously awaited the half-time coronation ceremonies. As thousands of students and fans gazed down at the field before them, the names of the court members were called as they walked down the fifty yard line to cheers from friends. Finally the names were called of the 2010 Homecoming King and Queen Carlton Graves and Ashdon Floyd and the 2009 King and Queen passed on their titles to their fratnerity brother and sorority sister.

SUPPORTING OUR pack

Sophomore quarterback Ryan Aplin, at right, came off the field after the Red Wolves first drive of the Homecoming game. The 2010 Homecoming game against Louisville was the first time the ASU football team had ever played a team from a BCS automatic qualifying conference at home. Aplin threw three touchdown passes and helped the Red Wolves outscore the Cardinals 17-3 in the second half but 31 first half points helped Louisville to a 34-24 victory.

SETTLING INTO res life

The Residence Halls are not just a place where students lay their head to rest but a place where they live, learn, and become a community. The Residence Halls are a place that provides students with the freedom to live away from parents, but teaches them the responsibility you should have with your roommate and hall floor. For many students this is their first time to share a room with someone, do their own laundry, and try to keep their room clean. EXPANDING OUR thoughts

In today's society, global awareness is an integral aspect of a university education. Multicultural programming at Arkansas State University is designed to promote awareness, appreciation, respect and value in human difference regardless of culture, sexual orientation, gender, age or ethnicity. Students, faculty, and staff took advantage of the opportunities Arkansas State University provided by engaging in educational, cultural and social programs that promote understanding and the exchange of ideas. July 2010 marked the opening of the new Multicultural Center at Arkansas State University. This new space serves the Arkansas State community as a resource center to discover cultures of the world.

BREAKING THE tradition

Every program sponsored by the Leadership Center for the non-traditional student population was specifically designed to meet their various needs, as well as encourage them to become involved with the campus community. Throughout the academic year many events were held, ranging from dirve-in movies to roundtable discussions, to cater to this specific population of ASU students and their families in hopes of supporting their academic success. During the Fall semester non-traditional students provided a brand new space where they could complete homework, use the computers, or meet with other students similar to them.

JOIN OUR WAY of life

The International Student Program has been rewarding in many ways for Arkansas State University. The program has allowed ASU students, faculty, and staff to experience the world through the international students that attended ASU this year, and ASU was taken to the world by the international students that shared their exciting experiences with friends in their countries. Several individuals on campus worked hard to ensure that international students had a positive experience not only at ASU, but also in America. The Office of International Student Programs hosted a variety of events such as International Student Week and welcome dinners for all students. In addition, the office took students on a variety of field trips throughout the year to Missouri, Tennessee, and other locations in the state of Arkansas.

FINDING OUR niche

Registered Student Organizations, more commonly referred to as RSOs, played a huge part with our student's life. RSOs are organizations organized and developed by students for students. Students are able to join an existing organization, or create an organization of their own if they cannot find what they are looking for at ASU. Throughout the academic year organizations planned and hosted a variety of successful events.

DEFINING A generation

In a world of hit primetime TV shows, political controversy, and pop stars that never cease to amaze, world media is all around us. In the past year, we were glued to news stations waiting for the safe return of the thirty-three Chilean miners, caught Bieber Fever, downloaded every song on the Glee soundtrack, cheered for America during the 2010 Winter Olympics, fist pumped with Pauly D from The Jersey Shore, debated Healthcare Reform, and frequented YouTube to watch Lady GaGa's "Bad Romance." It was a year of excitement, drama, and extravagant outfits. It was a year that defined our generation.

PUMPING SOME iron

The Red W.O.L.F. (Wellness Opportunities and Life Fitness) Center had its Grand Opening on January 20, 2010. The ASU Student Government Association passed a resolution in 2007, to begin planning the building. The final product spans 85,000 square feet and cost a total of eighteen million dollars. The Red W.O.L.F. Center contains an indoor walking/running track, three full basketball courts, a MAC gym, full cardiovascular fitness and weight training rooms, a dance studio, and meeting rooms.
The Red W.O.L.F. Center offers many different workout classes and also has fitness challenges that span a few months at a time. Personal trainers are also available to help personalize the workout program. Intramural sports are also played in the Center; it is a very popular place to come and hang out between classes, and there is almost always a basketball game going!

BUILDING OUR campus

For years Arkansas State University has focused on making its campus one that students, faculty, and staff could be proud to call home. The Liberal Arts building, Caraway Road overpass, Student Union renovations, STEM Den and ROTC Living Learning Communities all assisted with ASU's focus on providing state of the art, quality facilities for continuous improvement of ASU's campus.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES BOARD

The Student Activities Board, more commonly known to students as "SAB", is a longstanding organization that enriches the campus day by day through seven different committees. SAB is broken down into Public Relations, Spirit Club, Leadership Programs/Community Involvement, Multicultural Enrichment, Special Events, Student Union Events, and Issues and Awareness. This organization is widely responsible for the fun activities seen on campus such as Spring Fest, Welcome Week Events, SAB Lecture Series, Order of the Pack, Mardi Gras, as well as all the various Pride Day events. SAB Directors are selected each March through an application and interview process. Committee members also are invited in to help with ideas and planning in order to fully engage the students of Arkansas State University and make the college experience the best it can be.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Ready. Set. Lead. The Student Government Association is a group of ambitious student leaders who are committed to serving the students of Arkansas State University. Their goal is to bridge the gap between the administration and faculty. Each college is represented by a senator along with International, Non-Traditional, Honors College, Military Science, and all classifications on both undergraduate and graduate levels. SGA strives to ensure that all students have a voice, and that their voice is heard. They also aim to improve the campus of ASU, by making it a better place for future generations.

a summer of guidance
NEW STUDENT ORIENTATION LEADERS

"A leader is one who knows the way, goes the way, and shows the way." This was the motto of the 2010, New Student Orientation Leaders. During the spring semester, the Orientation Leaders trained for the summer ahead by learning about ASU and how to interact with the incoming freshmen, and they quickly blossomed as a team. This group of students grew not only as leaders on campus and as co-workers who wanted to see freshmen excel, but they grew also as friends. It was a summer of hard work and challenges for the OLs, but they overcame any obstacles that came their way and made the summer a tremendous success, and had a ton of fun doing so. All photos by: Natalie Eskew

Far left: During Camp A-State, some of the OLs teamed up to compete in the relay race. They proudly sported their bare feet for the leg of the race in which they had to use their toes to get marbles out of a cooler of ice water.

Left: David James poked fun at how the female Orientation Leaders posed for their award pictures by exaggerating his pose with his award. He won the "Unsung Hero" award, which went to the OL who chose to lead through strong actions rather than by words.

Above: During Orientation Leader work weekend, the OLs were split into two teams and competed over ASU trivia. The teams, Team X-Treme and 2 Legit, fought a hard fight, but in the end, Team X-Treme won. They sported their "X"treme attitude for a group photo.

Left: Shea Wilkerson showed off her owl completed on a canvas which was made by her very creative secret pal. Orientation Leaders receive two different secret pals throughout their experience, one during the spring class and the other during the summer programs. Shea later found out that the secret pal that got her such wonderful gifts was Chloe Case.

experiencing the world GLOBAL STUDENT LEADERS

The Global Student Leader program at Arkansas State University provides an opportunity for outstanding student leaders to experience a culture abroad. Throughout the year, the selected student leaders prepare for the journey by researching the customs, education, lifestyle, history and culture of the determined destination. This preparation allows the students to be geared up for the global experience and excited to share the experience with the ASTATE community. This year's destinations included Australia and France, Switzerland, Germany and England.

Laura Keath, a Senior Interdisciplinary Studies major from Memphis, Tennessee stated, " I had a ...lly awesome experience! The opportunity to travel abroad was an experience I will never forget. I believe everyone should visit a difference country at least once in their lifetime. "

Army ROTC resides at Arkansas State University to offer classes and hands on training focused primarily on leadership in small organizations. These classes are open to all ASU students. ROTC's mission is to commission the future officer leadership of the United States Army and motivate young people to be better citizens. Esprit De Corps and fellowship are key components of belonging to a military organization and especially ROTC.

One true love
RELIGIOUS ORGANIZATIONS

Belief, faith, love, family, God, worship, retreats, mission trips, and meals; that's what many of the religious organizations at Arkansas State University have in common, but each of the different groups have their own unique identities. No matter which of these groups you chose to get to know they provided you support, strength, and a home away from home as students grew and changed throughout their college years. The number of religious organizations on campus continues to rise each year, adding more groups and more members. Students do not have any problem stepping out and proclaiming their belief. Many people involved in one of ASU's religious organizations would say it is more than friends, a place to hang out, or something to be involved in; we are family and we love to show God's love by loving radically.

GREEK FUNCTION

What was your favorite Greek function?

"My favorite greek event definitely had to be ATO Viking party. We spent months building a 2000 square foot viking boat five feet off the ground in our back yard, then had a registered party on it. We had members from every Greek organization there, and it was wonderful to see people of all different affiliations having fun together at our house. Greek unity is fundamental, and we made friendships that night that are a testament to that importance."

RECRUITMENT

Maroon shirts flooded the sidewalks, classrooms and Student Union. A diverse group of men and women with shirts all reading "I am Greek" awaited the weeks of recruitment. Booths were set up outside the Union for potential new members to get information on the tough decision ahead. In the end, the Greek organizations on campus were able to handout bids and welcome new members into their brotherhoods and sisterhoods.

Coming Together

GREEK WEEK 2010

Greek Week 2010 gave Arkansas State University's IFC, NPC, and NPHC councils an opportunity to come together to raise money for a great cause. After Greek Life organizations were paired into teams, Greek Week consisted of a step/ skit competition, volleyball tournament, penny wars, and awards night. Greek Week 2010 had a theme of superheroes, and was incorporated throughout the competitions of the week.

Embracing Inner Beauty

MISS BLACK AND GOLD

Held during the frigid month of January, the Miss Black and Gold Pageant, was sponsored by the "Ice Cold" men of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity Incorporated. In only a few months, eight lovely ladies prepared themselves for one night to show the ASU campus their inner and outer beauty. In the end, Ms. Christine Kent stole the hearts of the judges with her powerful performance, insightful answers, and graceful walk. She later went on to the state competition and competed.The runner up was Ms. Keochi Wright.

MR. GREEK ADONIS

Slathered in oil, select new members from fraternities strutted onto stage in a shiny toga. NPC hosted Mr. Greek Adonis allowing each sorority and fraternity the option to sponsor an individual to compete in this annual event. The men must present sports wear, skits that are typically hilarious, and display a toga during the ever popular pageant. Best Men on Campus was also awarded at the event, which the men of Lambda Chi Alpha won for the fourth year in a row. Shaun Potgieter, a Pi Kappa Alpha new member, took home Mr. Greed Adonis after a his rendition of The Evolution of Dance, a popular YouTube video.

MISS GREEK GODDESS

Lambda Chi Alpha's Miss Greek Goddess 2010 was a huge success. Over 2,000 dollars was raised and all proceeds went to Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA). This program helps support abused and neglected children. Sororities also collected over 9,000 cans to donate to the North American Food Drive. Chi Omega was awarded Cream of the Crop, and the Biggest Heart award for their can donations.

PHILANTHROPIES

A huge portion of Greek Life at ASU is dedicated to raising awareness and money for many different charitable foundations. Through hardwork and team effort, the greeks at ASU raised over $100,000 in 2010. Greeks also spent considerable amounts of time volunteering at local non-profit agencies this past year.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

Interfraternity Council (IFC) is the governing body for seven of ASU's fraternities. IFC is responsible for setting policies regarding recruitment as well as carrying out programs that involve the entire Greek System at ASU. In 2010, IFC was involved with Walk-A-Mile in her shoes, fraternity recruitment, and Greek Week. IFC also sets minimum membership standards for the seven member chapters. ASU IFC member chapters are: Alpha Gamma Rho, Alpha Tau Omega, Kappa Alpha Order, Lambda Chi Alpha, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Chi, and Sigma Pi.

NATIONAL PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

National Panhellenic Council (NPC) at Arkansas State University consists of four Greek organizations: Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Omicron Pi, Chi Omega, and Delta Zeta. NPC started off the school year with a formal recruitment process, ending with Bid Day on September 14th. ASU sororities then worked together through various events throughout the year to raise money for each organization's specific philanthropies.

College of AGRICULTURE

When ASU was founded in 1909, it was a college solely for agricultural and mechanical fields. Although ASU is much different today and offers classes in over 125 academic majors, the College of Agriculture and Technology is still an essential part of the University. The College of Agriculture and Technology offers thirteen undergraduate degrees, five minors, six graduate degrees, and is affiliated with eight student organizations. The college is also involved in extensive public outreach programming and research activities -- two of the most widely recognized programs are the Farmer's Market and the petting zoo. The Farmer's Market offers fresh fruits and vegetables to the public, sells mums, and has pumpkin carving and face painting for children. The Bill and Alice Nix Petting Zoo is free of charge and the college began sponsoring it in 2006. The Equine Center and Farm Complex located across from campus are also a part of the College of Agriculture and Technology, and boast quite the array of farm life. It is no wonder the agricultural program at ASU has been going strong for over one hundred years!

College of BUSINESS

The College of Business at ASU focuses on producing well trained, intelligent, and ethical business leaders. The College of Business offers many undergraduate degree programs, along with several graduate programs. It is accredited by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business, which is the highest standard of achievement for schools worldwide. The College of Business produces future leaders in the state of Arkansas, the country, and the world, and teaches students to work hard, have fun, make a difference, and reach their full potential.

College of COMMUNICATIONS

The College of Communication is packed with a variety of classes, clubs, and opportunities. No other university in the state gives students the hands-on experience with new technology like the College of Communication at ASU. Providing degrees in Journalism, Graphic Design, Communication Studies, Radio-TV, Public Relations, and much more, the College of Communication offers something for everyone. Not only does the College of Communication offer great opportunities inside the classroom, but outside the classroom as well. Lambda Pi Eta, Women in Communications, The Herald, ASU-TV, KASU, National Association of Black Journalist, Public Relations Student Society of America, and Debate are a few examples of organizations that make the College of Communications successful.

College of EDUCATION

"The mission of the College of Education is to generate and disseminate knowledge through teaching, research, and service; and to apply that knowledge to improve education and the quality of life for all individuals in a pluralistic and democratic society. We accomplish this within student-centered, intellectually challenging environments with faculty and staff dedicated to excellence." The College of Education covers a large portion of the students at ASU. Teacher Education, Educational Leadership/Curriculum, Special Education, Health, Physical Education, Sports Sciences, Psychology, and Counseling are all within the Education Department. Whether interested in graduate classes or undergraduate classes the College of Education has plenty to offer students to prepare them for the future. Under the new leadership of Dean Dr. Don Maness, the program continues to prosper and produce successful citizens across the globe.

College of HUMANITIES & SOCIAL SCIENCES

The College of Humanities and Social Sciences encompasses more than just history and sociology. Areas of study in this college include English, Philosophy, Criminology, Sociology, Geography, Political Science, History, Heritage Studies, World Languages, and Cultures. All students are required to earn some credits in this college as part of the general education requirements. Not only do these required classes help undergraduate students get used to the pace of college, but they also promote intellectual engagement, effective communication, critical thinking, and diversity. The College of Humanities and Social Sciences serves an important role by bridging the gap between the past, the present, and the future. By understanding these ties, students can then begin making connections between their own experiences and the world they live in.

College of SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS

The College of Science and Mathematics has many different degree plans in fields like Biological Sciences, Chemistry and Physics, Computer Science, and Mathematics and Statistics. Each department offers undergraduate and graduate degree programs and there are a few doctoral programs as well. Many leadership opportunites are provided by the nine different clubs affiliated with the College of Science and Mathematics, including a Wildlife Club, Medical Arts Club, and Society for Neuroscience Club. Numerous research opportunities are also available through the departments. Brain Awareness Day is a free event and open to the public filled with exciting hands-on events for all ages designed to challenge the brain and improve brain fitness. Every year, ASU hosts the Northeast Arkansas Regional Science Fair, which students and teams develop projects in the areas of science, math, computer science, and engineering. The regional competition is held in ASU's Student Union bringing students from all over Northeast Arkansas to campus.

University COLLEGE

University College is one of the many colleges on campus that centers on the success of all Arkansas State students. Whether it is your first day at ASU, or your first day in a long time, this college is here to help. The University College provides instruction and a multitude of programs geared toward making sure that every student succeeds during and after their time at Arkansas State. For those new to campus, Making Connections, Academic Success Institute, and College Courses programs assist students with acclimating to the university setting. Other student services include the Learning Support Services Center, Student Support Services, Wilson Academic Advising Center, Student Athlete Academic Success Center, and the TRiO Programs. The programs are all available to meet a variety of needs regardless of student classification. University College offers three degree programs to students, and many top-notch advisors who can help each student with all of their degree-area questions. These advisors also give students who need a little extra time deciding on a major the guidance they need to make the right choice. University College also offers students the freedom to create a unique degree plan to suite them and their academic ambitions. Whether a student needs tutoring, help picking a major, or even just directions to the ATM, University College is here to help.

Honors COLLEGE

The Honors College is for students who are driven to excel and provides a unique community for them to achieve their goals. The students who are associated with the Honors College have the opportunity to live in the Honors Living Learning Community, which is the first of its kind on the ASU campus. The HLLC is home to students from all different backgrounds, but they are brought together by a desire to learn. The HLLC not only provides a living place, it also has state of the art classrooms close by and several meeting rooms for students to use. The Honors College Association is a student led organization that plans different activities and service projects for the Honors students to participate in throughout the year.

Who's Who AMONG COLLEGE STUDENTS

Each year, a select group of students is called forward to accept one of the most prestigious awards the academic community can bestow. This exclusive honor, Who's Who Among Students, has become one of the most highly regarded honors programs in the nation. Student leaders selected by the Who's Who program mark a pinnacle of scholastic achievement. This year thirty-eight students at Arkansas State University were awarded Who's Who, and Shannon O'Nale was awarded Most Outstanding. All photos provided by: Mid South Photography

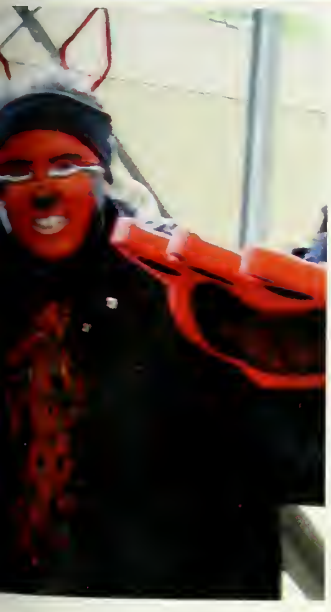
Driving Down the Field

FOOTBALL



At 7:00 p.m. on September 18th, the Red Wolves hosted their first home game against Louisiana-Monroe. After a hard fought battle, ASU came out on top 34-20. Several wins followed, including a 51-24 victory over Middle Tennessee, which was on ESPN2. The game was the first ever to be nationally televised at ASU and drew a tremendous crowd, despite inclement weather. The team scored four major wins during the season and in December introduced Hugh Freeze as their new Head Coach.

GOLF

A year of top ten finishes

The Lady Redwolf Golf Team, led by Coach M.J. Desbians, had a 2009-2010 Season to remember, placing in the top ten ten of the eleven tournaments entered, including a first place victory, a second place honor, and two third place honors. The men's team, led by Coach Steve Johnson, had a good season of their own, with six top ten finishes, including a second place victory in the Jackrabbit Invitational held in Primm, Nevada.

Women's Soccer BIGGEST FAN

Cross eyed she looks down at the black smudges right above her upper lip and streaming down her chin. Amalie Benjamin sports some what of a mustache and gotee. Her inspiration, Stasha Siers. "I had no idea she was going to do that," Siers said. "Amalie's a funny person, so it's totally something she would do." As a dedicated fan, Benjamin equipped herself with an original design poster. "I told Stasha I was her biggest fan and to prove it I would come with her name on my forehead." Benjamin said. "My friends thought [the mustache idea] was funny and I'm the only idiot who would actually even think of doing it so they pressured me into actually doing it." The ladies finished the season 7-11-2.

Tennis Team Swings Into Action

The Red Wolves tennis team had an exciting 2010 season, taking seven wins in the spring and even defeating Florida Atlantic in the first round of the SunBelt Conference Championships. In the fall, the ladies participated in several tournaments, showing crowds their ability to backhand and underspin with even the most elite teams. All photos provided by: Sports Information

TRACK & FIELD

Going the distance

The 2010 track and field season was one full of challenges and triumphs for the Red Wolves. The season began in September for the men and ran through November, producing favorable results. The women's indoor season began in December with the ASU Kickoff Klassic and ended in March as ASU finished fourth in the SunBelt Conference and A-State runner Samantha Salinas set a new record for women's mile. The outdoor season ran from March to June and proved successful as well. Whether jumping hurdles or throwing shotput, these men and women always perform to their highest ability and give their fans one howl of a show.

Competition at its best

INTRAMURALS

Intramural Sports at Arkansas State University provide an opportunity for students, faculty and staff to participate in a structured and competitive setting. More than 20-25 Intramural activities are offered for the men and women of ASU throughout the year.

Students enjoy the competition of the various Intramural sports Arkansas State University offers. Basketball, Flag Football, Volleyball, Ultimate Frisbee, Softball, Soccer, Table Tennis, Badminton, Whiffleball, Bowling and a few other sports make up ASU's Intramural program. Last spring was Arkansas State's first time to host a State Intramural Tournament. Colleges and universities from across the state came to ASU to cheer on their basketball teams.

A YEAR OF interaction

Dr. Wyatt
A TRIBUTE TO SERVICE

On May 7, 2010, Dr. Les Wyatt announced he planned to step down from his position as President of th Arkansas State University system at the end of June. He voiced his plans at a Board of Trustees meeting, reportedl surprising almost everyone in attendance. Wyatt became the President of ASU in 1995, and during his 15 years c dedication to the university, has helped the system grow tremendously. He organized the six ASU campuses into a organizational structure in which he served as the first president of the entire system. The tenured professor of art an higher education said "I am very grateful for the involvement I have had with ASU over the past 15 years." The Board c Trustees unanimously decided to name Wyatt President Emeritus in lieu of his highly successful time spent as syster president in which he led growth and development in each ASU campus and its more than 20,000 students. Wyatt als played a detrimental role in ASU receiving its Higher Education Holdings partnership in April 2008. The HEH partnership provided assistance with marketing and the technicalities of long distance learning. "We have evidence tha distance learning has helped ASU fulfill its mission of teaching, research, service, and economic development. We hav certain been able to address place-bound students and those in rural areas, but we also have been pleased to see th participation of so many students who are engaged in distance learning in their workplaces because of th encouragement of their employers. This engagement has been a win-win-win situation for the employer, the studen and the university," said Wyatt of the university's involvement with HEH. Wyatt also oversaw record-breakin enrollment and the recognition of ASU as tier one southern regional school during his time as system president. A

What is your favorite thing about working for ASU?

"My favorite thing about working at ASU would have to be the students. I enjoy the diversity we have in our student body and the diversity in thought and student interest. The students' involvement in their various student organizations and their constant invitations to faculty and staff to be share with them provides opportunities to form close connections and a deeper appreciation for the efforts the student expend."

Dr. Lonnie Williams

Associate Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs

"Unlike other Universities, ASU gives faculty the latitude to explore and teach many different classes, many different forms of scholarship and many different opportunities in community service."

Dr. Jack Zibluk

Professor of Journalism
President - elect Faculty Senate

"My favorite thing about working at ASU is being able to help students achieve their educational goals by offering them support, encouragement, and service with a smile."

Mrs. Brandi Snell

Financial Aid Counselor

On, On, On to victory
Brave team you're second to none
Let's make this game history along with the others we've won

FIGHT! FIGHT! FIGHT!

with all your might so that the world may see that

A season of new traditions
ASU TIME CAPSULE CELEBRATION

While celebrating 100 years of Arkansas State University, the students created a new tradition that will last for the next twenty-five years. The first time capsule was buried in April 2010 at the historic arch on the ASU campus. The graduating class of 2009 collected significant items that symbolized campus, community and world events during the past year. The contents of the buried time campus will be revealed at the twenty-five year Homecoming reunion of the Class of 2009. Each graduating class, under the direction of the Student Government Association and Student Activities Board, will carry on the tradition. The following include some of the items included in the 2009 Time Capsule: ASU Herald Newspapers, Arkansas Scholarship Lottery information, football tailgating photos, and several ASU buildings grand opening memorabilia.

Redwolf Pride. Academic Endeavors. Springfest Fun. Homecoming Spirit. This was a year of developing friendships. A year of diversity. A year of success. Among one major success was ASU being named by U.S. News as Best Colleges 2011. In November, ASU proudly announced a new system President, Dr. Charles Welch. This was a year of new beginnings. A year of involvement. A year of volunteering, working hard, and socializing. At the State's University where the success of the faculty and staff is measured by the success of each student. It was definitely a year of _____.

A YEAR OF you.
